

Local Youths Connected With Burglaries Here

Four local youths, ages ranging from 14 to 17, who will go before Juvenile Judge U. G. Garrett at 10 a. m. Saturday in connection with a series of burglaries here during May.

The boys, all in school, have admitted to seven burglaries since May 10. All the burglaries netted the boys less than $70, plus ice cream, cold drinks, gum, candy etc.

The youths admitted to entering the Cottage Drive-In, B. C. Brown's Station, Garland School building, the Dairy Queen, Perry's Drive-In, the U-Do Laundry and tried to break into Leon Davis' grocery store.

Chief of Police Jack Brown said they could not be connected to several other burglaries here recently, including theft of eight to ten pairs of swimming trunks from Municipal pool earlier this week.

The burglaries were actually committed by three of the boys. The fourth was along on one but refused to take part and refused to accept any of the money. In fact he tried to keep them from doing it when he learned what they intended, Chief Brown said.

"All the boys are from good families and had plenty of spending money for their needs," Chief Brown said, "they just couldn't give any reason why they did it."

House Rebuffs Ike on Defense Spending

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a major rebuff to President Eisenhower, the House has decided that the Defense Department can get along on $3,582,725,000 in new appropriations next year.

That's $2,565,275,000 less than the President had requested and $1,200,000,000 below what he pleaded with his House leaders to try to restore to the bill.

The House sent the biggest money bill of the year to the Senate yesterday by a roll call vote of 394-1. The lone dissenter was Rep. Canfield (R-N.J.), who objected to the deep cut.

In doing so, the House ignored Eisenhower's warning that if the $1,200,000,000 cut stood, aircraft procurement and guided missile development would suffer. The President made no fight for $1,000,000,000 of the cut, describing it as a "bookkeeping operation."

With an economy drive in full swing in the Senate, as well as in the House, it appeared that Eisenhower's hopes for winning his battle there were none too bright.

However, Sen. Chavez (D-NM), chairman of a Senate Appropriations subcommittee, which has been studying the defense money requests, said that "if it is necessary in the interest of national security to restore the House cuts, all or in part, I am confident that his committee will do it."

The House hurled back every attempt by Republicans to increase amounts recommended by the Appropriations Committee. The big test came on a move to add $13 million dollars which the House previously had denied in peace time fashion. It was beaten on a roll call vote 448-151.

Voting to add the $13 million dollars were 140 Republicans and 11 Democrats. Opposing it were 29 Republicans and 203 Democrats.

The additional money would have been spread among all three branches of the service, with the Air Force getting the biggest allotment.

The House upset its Appropriations Committee on only one allotment, and the committee didn't oppose that. It gave the Air Force an extra 2 1/2 million dollars to pay for its share of a new, air navigation control system being set up by the Civil Aeronautics Administration to handle high-speed jet planes.

The funds voted by the house for the fiscal year starting July 1 included these for the three services: Army $7,239,425,000, a cut of $1,225,575,000; Navy $9,801,355,000, a cut of $385,645,000; and Air Force $15,823,220,000, a cut of $247,780,000. The balance of the money goes to the office of the secretary of defense and to inter-service activities.

Nation Pauses to Pay Tribute to War Dead

By The Associated Press

Americans pause today to honor the nation's military dead. Millions, in a holiday mood, relax at home or enjoy opening festivities at beaches and other resort areas.

As usual on Memorial Day, travel is heavy and a watchful eye is being kept on auto and other fatalities accompanying the pleasures of a long weekend.

The weather forecast for most of the nation was fair and mild. Many churches scheduled special services while countless thousands trekked to gravesites to pay homage to their war dead.

Memorial Day, originally a remembrance of the Northerners who died in the Civil War, gradually has come to mean for Americans a salute to the dead of all wars — from the Revolutionary to the Korean.

Parades and other special civic ceremonies abound in communities from coast to coast. At Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D. C., a wreath will be laid in President Eisenhower's name at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Acting for the President at the ceremony will be Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles. Eisenhower will spend a quiet day at the White House.

The scenes of savage fighting during the War Between the States will have their special observances — among them Antietam in Maryland and Gettysburg in Pennsylvania.

USIA Money Slashed, May Face Inquiry

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
WASHINGTON (AP) — The embattled U. S. Information Agency — its budgets request slashed by $47,800,000 — appeared today to be facing further congressional inquiry.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) said USA officials will be questioned about the employment of newspapermen to write special articles for USA distribution overseas.

Aviator Who Bombed Japan Now Preaches

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — The lead bombardier in the first B-29 raid against the Japanese home islands in 1944 was well embarked today on a different mission — that of religion.

The Rev. Herbert C. Hirschfeld, 35, associate pastor of the Concord Methodist Church, was graduated recently from the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley.

The 1944 air attack against Japan, first since the 1942 Doolittle raid, was a turning point in World War II.

Hirschfeld, then a captain, and his 12-man crew subsequently flew 35 missions, unscathed. His unit carried its own gasoline, bombs and supplies "over the hump" from India to Chinese forward bases, then refueled for the flight to Japan.

An incident in the Korean War led him to enter the ministry, a step he had contemplated in his high school days before the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor.

His squadron was short of chaplains, and Hirschfeld found himself called upon repeatedly to lead the men in informal religious services.

A Kimpo airfield near Seoul in 1952, after he was recalled as a major in the Korean action, he found a serviceman sitting on a cot in his tent, holding a gun.

Hirschfeld said the man was suffering from war nerves and had a letter from his wife saying she was leaving him. He talked to the man for an hour.

"Then suddenly he relaxed and handed me the gun," Hirschfeld recalled. "We sent him to Japan for hospitalization, where he ultimately recovered and returned home. Most heartening, he and his wife have reconciled."

Hirschfeld and his wife Ivy have two children, Jane, 10 and Cathy, 7.

Grocer, Dad Are Out of Jail

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Hickinbothams, father and son, are out of jail.

They won a conditional release yesterday after serving one day of identical 190-day sentences for contempt of court in defying a Sunday grocery store closing ordinance.

After H. V. Hickinbotham and his father, John H. Hickinbotham, agreed to make bond of $3,000 each and keep their controversial store closed on Sundays temporarily, the Arkansas Supreme Court agreed to let them go free.

But if they open the store on Sunday before the high court hears the latest appeal in their case, their bonds will be forfeited and back to jail they go.

The two men were sentenced to jail Tuesday by Pulaski Chancellor Guy E. Williams, who also fined each of them $1,900 for violating his injunction of last Sept. 14. That injunction ordered them to close their store on Sundays in compliance with state "blue laws."

The Supreme Court acted yesterday at the request of the Hickinbothams' attorney, Kenneth C. Coffelt, who also filed separate writs for immediate appeals in the case.

The high court will recess for the summer July 1 and a court official said yesterday the grocers case is not expected to come up until the court reconvenes in the fall.

Floodfighters Fear Possible New Setbacks

By The Associated Press

Northwest Arkansas breathed easier today as the Arkansas River started falling at Fort Smith, Van Buren and Ozark. Downstream, however, floodfighters waited for possible new setbacks from the devastating water.

The river stood at 33.5 feet at Fort Smith, a drop of one foot yesterday and was expected to crest at 40 feet near Morrilton late today and 28 feet at Little Rock tomorrow.

U. S. 64 was still closed at Piney Bridge and State 22 was closed between Delaware and Dardanelle but reopened from Fort Smith to Delaware. Highway 7 south of Russellville remained closed on the road to Ola.

North Little Rock, plagued by flash floods and high water for 10 days, reported its sandbags were not holding and bulldozers were hastily called in to throw up an earthen dam.

Thus far along the Arkansas about 1,000 National Guardsmen have joined the battle to keep levees intact as the massive stream creeps down the state from the northwest.

With three levees already overwhelmed by the swollen Arkansas River, floodfighters today waited nervously for possible new setbacks in the state's grim flood picture.

So far, about 1,000 National Guardsmen have joined the battle to keep levees intact as the massive stream creeps down the state from the northwest.

Late last night a 3-mile levee in the Petit Jean Mountain area went under and floodwaters cascaded over it to inundate another 2,100 acres of farmland.

The levee failed a few hours after President Eisenhower designated portions of Arkansas as a major disaster area eligible for federal relief.

Earlier yesterday, a privately built levee in the Dardanelle area was topped and between 5,000 and 6,000 acres of cropland were covered by water. Another privately built levee in the same vicinity was over-run Tuesday and about 1,200 acres were flooded.

Army Engineers yesterday a classed the current overflow as a major flood.

Residents of Carden Bottoms and Dardanelle Bottoms have been evacuated to higher ground. The Yell County Red Cross estimated that about 60 to 75 families had been forced out.

Workers also battled the river yesterday near Perryville, where a National Guard spokesman said the water was "dangerously close" to toppling the levee. Perryville National Guardsmen were helping in the fight.

Army Engineers said some 75,000 sandbags have been employed to bolster menaced levees and 50,000 more probably will be added.

At North Little Rock, sandbag defenses have been strengthened to protect a low-lying residential area. Some families there have been evacuated.

Rising waters have closed a dozen or more highways. The river rose to 33.45 feet at Dardanelle yesterday. Flood stage is 22 feet.

A strong levee system in southeast Arkansas is expected to keep the river under control after flood crests move into that area Saturday.

Counties Haven't Selected Roads

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — With the deadline just two days away, officials of 17 Arkansas counties still have not acted on selection of the roads they want added to the state highway system.

Highway Director Herbert Eldridge says he does not know what will happen if some counties fail to get in under the wire.

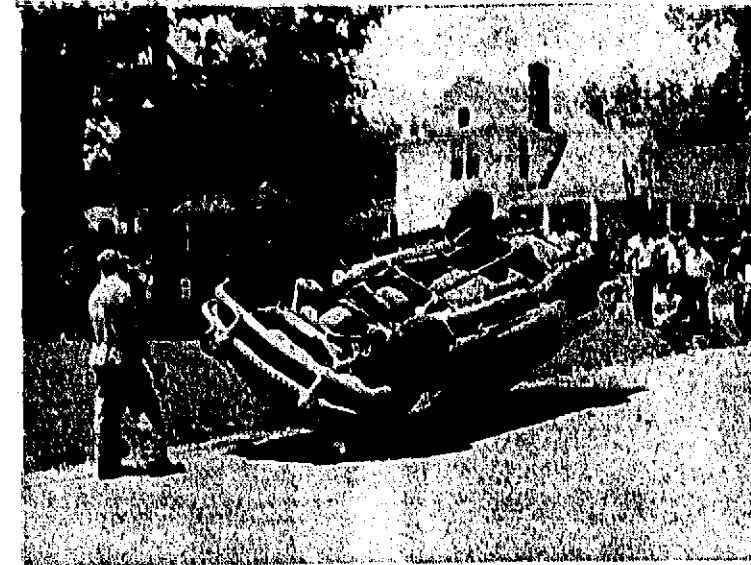

Eldridge said yesterday it will be up to the Highway Commission to decide what to do about failure to meet the July 1 deadline.

Under a law passed by the 1957 Legislature, counties are permitted to add up to 12 miles of roads to the state system — a total of about 750 to 800 miles.

The law states that all roads chosen must connect with an existing state highway. Eldridge said all proposals submitted by the 58 counties which have responded so far have been in compliance with this provision.

Pulaski County was among the counties still to be heard from but names of the other 16 were not available immediately.

British to Resume Full Trade With Red China

By JOHN D. PARRY

LONDON, (UP) — Britain cleared the way today for substantial resumption of trade with Red China despite American protests.

The United States immediately declared it was "most disappointed" with the move.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd went before Parliament with an announcement of major relaxations in the Korean war embargo enforced up till now by 15 Western nations.

Authoritative sources said British exports would be permitted to ship materials to Red China which are now shipped to Russia and the Eastern European satellites.

The United States had been informed in "advance" of Britain's go-it-alone decision. A protest statement was released by the State Department and distributed through American embassies in Europe.

It said the British decision prevented an Allied agreement on continuing stiff restrictions on stiff China trade.

The United States and Britain and other NATO Allies had been meeting in Paris more than a month attempting to find a compromise on Britain's planned move.

"The talks broke down this week," the State Department said. The United States "contemplates no change in its policy of total embargo on trade with Communist China."

The U. S. declaration said a "majority" of delegates at the 16-nation meeting in Paris had favored continuing separate trade embargo lists for Red China and Soviet Russia, with the China restrictions being kept more restrictive.

"The recent discussions among the cooperating governments have revealed that there was a wish on the part of all countries to retain a unified approach on the question of trade controls on exports to Communist China," the State Department statement said.

"A majority of the countries, including the United States, sought a unanimous agreement on maintenance of a differential, the statement continued.

"The United States believed that the security interests of the free world would be best promoted by the maintenance of a significant differential."

According to the State Department, the United States agreed to a proposal that would have revised the China embargo list while still maintaining higher restrictions than those covering trade with Russia.

Hays Is Southern Baptist President

CHICAGO (AP) — Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) of Little Rock today was elected president of the Southern Baptist Convention to become the first layman to head the group in 12 years.

Baptist church of Little Rock, defeated Dr. Ramsey Pollard of Knoxville, Tenn., in a runoff ballot.

Five other men were nominated. The election was held by a surprise standing vote. Many messengers had expected long, hard-fought voting with numerous secret ballots.

Dr. W. Douglas Hudgins of the First Baptist Church of Jackson, Miss., a defeated candidate for the presidency, was elected first vice president.

Dr. Noel Taylor, Carbondale, Ill., executive secretary of the Illinois Baptist Convention, was named second vice president.

Memorial Day Traffic Toll Starts Surge

By The Associated Press

The usual heavy Memorial Day highway traffic began rolling on schedule last night. Accident fatalities were at a low level today.

Total deaths reported since 6 p. m. last night and midnight to the 25 mark. These included 20 traffic victims, 2 drownings and 3 miscellaneous fatalities connected with the holiday.

The National Safety Council in Chicago estimated that 120 persons would be killed in traffic accidents in the period between 6 p. m. last night and midnight tonight.

The normal death toll for a non-holiday Thursday at this time of year, the council said, is 75.

An AP nationwide tabulation of a 30-hour period — Wednesday night through Thursday — two weeks ago showed 85 traffic deaths, 16 drownings and 45 other deaths from miscellaneous mishaps, for a total of 146.

The council did not make an estimate of traffic deaths for the four days of this weekend, since Friday is a regular work day for government offices, banks, and some stores and business.

Hundreds See Jets Collide, 1 Known Dead

MINNEAPOLIS — Two Navy jets collided in mid-air today and plunged into residential Minneapolis.

At least one pilot was killed when his plane rocketed into a row of homes in northeast Minneapolis. Flames engulfed four houses and several parked automobiles. Five persons were hospitalized in poor condition.

The other jet smashed into a factory plant barely missing the Northeast Athletic Field, a playground crowded with nearly 100 children.

It was not known whether the pilot of the second plane escaped by parachute or was trapped inside his plane.

The accident occurred while hundreds of persons watched the planes flying in a four-craft formation as part of a Memorial Day maneuver above Sunset Memorial Park cemetery.

The two planes were thrown to the ground after they locked

Reaction to Formosa Riots Over World

The Associated Press
The blaze of anti-Formosa rioting last week on Formosa has been the world editorial reaction ranging from fresh Communist propaganda onslaughts to expressions of sympathy for the lot of the "do-gooder."

Some papers saw the Formosa violence as concrete proof that dollars do not buy friends. Others warned that the free world would be endangered if the incident served to encourage a withdrawal into a "fortress America."

In some Asian areas where U.S. troops are stationed, the outburst was seized on for local communists and used to stir age-old color prejudices. Other similarity-colored writers said it should serve as an example to spur attempts to ease friction.

The Taipei riots erupted after a U.S. Army court-martial acquitted an American sergeant accused of slaying a Chinese. The American said he acted in self-defense after he found the Chinese with a knife at his home.

The acquittal brought out angry Taipei mobs that attacked the U. S. Embassy, other installations and American personnel.

Communist China moved quickly to exploit the incident, building up its attacks on the Nationalist regime of Chiang Kai-shek and renewing its demands for American forces to quit Formosa. Moscow's press and radio joined in, declaring the Taipei case was a demonstration of American contempt for Asians.

Communist East Germany got in line with an attack in the East Berlin newspaper Neue Zeit. It declared the riots "show that the majority of the island's population no longer is willing to live under the yoke of the American suppressors and their stooges."

Worshippers of All Creeds Hear Graham

NEW YORK (AP) — An unusual "church" called Madison Square Garden today is bringing together worshippers of many creeds.

That's a characteristic the minister, Billy Graham, likes about it. "One of the things accomplished by these meetings," he told his 19,000 listeners last night, "is that they bring Christians of all different backgrounds together."

The crowds include about any denomination you could name — Methodists, Episcopalians, Baptists, Presbyterians, Catholics, Seventh-Day Adventists, Mormons, Lutherans and Jews. Said Graham: "We're all just love one for another."

The Sad, Sweet Sound of 'Taps' —

Sharply lined against the sky, a Marine bugler sounds "Taps" in memory of all of America's war dead. He stands atop the pedestal of the hero's statue in Washington commemorating the rising of the flag on Mt. Suribachi during the battle for Iwo Jima in World War II. But in a sense, the dramatic sculpture commemorates all servicemen and women of the past, whose sacrifices for America are noted in the list of wars around the pedestal's perimeter. Wars in which "uncommon valor was a common virtue."

Disaster Group to Meet on Friday

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The State Disaster Committee will meet here Friday to consider the question of relief for flood-stricken agricultural areas of Arkansas.

He criticized the "backbiters and expositors" who attack other Christians, and said: "A disgrace to the Christian church in America tonight is that we don't have love one for another."

The state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office is sending forms to counties seeking information forms on crop conditions as a result of the floods and recommendations on what emergency assistance is needed.

The disaster Committee, successor to the Drought Disaster Committee, is composed of representatives of several federal and state agencies and two private citizens. As chairman of the Agricultural and Stabilization Committee, Robert A. Tindall of Stuttgart is head of the disaster group.

Owls Don't Hoot — They Screech

WILMINGTON (AP) — When owls get together to raise a family, they don't give a hoot. They screech.

This is the word from Mrs. Georgiana Benner, who claims she was actually driven from her home when a pair of owls nested in a nearby tree.

She appealed for relief, but the people in the know told her the birds were operating within the "law of God and nature."

Officer Shot in Routine Investigation

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A policeman was shot down early today as he attempted to make a car. The patrolman, wounded seriously, emptied his 6-shot revolver at his assailants as they drove away.

Chief of Detectives C. O. Fink said that he "had no idea" whether the shooting was connected with the escape last night of two bank robbers from the State Hospital.

The patrolman, R. B. Lankford, 33, was able to give only a partial description of the automobile. He said that it bore a Texas license plate. Lankford underwent surgery for several hours and his condition was listed as "very serious" by hospital attendants.

Two other officers engaged in a running gun battle with two men in a car about 4 a.m., about two hours after Lankford was shot, but the two men escaped on the south side of Little Rock.

Numerous city, county and State Police officers converged on the area where the car was last seen out.

Lankford said that he was shot as he was examining the license of the driver of the car. Both men were outside the car when one of them suddenly drew a pistol and shot him in the left side below the heart.

Lankford said that he emptied his revolver at the two men as they jumped in the car and sped away. He said that five of the six shots probably hit the car and one may have hit one of the men.

Lankford was patrolling the residential area by himself.

Lankford first became suspicious of the men when they increased their speed when he pulled up behind them. He stopped them a few blocks later.

The State Hospital escapees are William Albert Anderson, 33, and his brother, Charles Edwin Anderson, 25, who have been indicted for the Aug. 4, 1955 robbery of a branch bank at Joiner, Ark.

Officers said that the escape of the Andersons, who have long criminal records, may have some connection with the shooting, although Lankford believes that his assailants were between 35 and 50 years old.

Officers also said there may be some connection between the shooting and the burglary of a liquor store about midnight. Lankford said that he smelled liquor, as he was investigating the automobile.

So she moved to her daughter's house. Nature finally started working in her favor, however. Owls stop screeching and calm down just before the eggs hatch. So, after a week, Mrs. Benner was back home.

The inquiry was probed during yesterday's debate as the Senate completed congressional action on a compromise bill cutting USIA's spending to $96,200,000. President Eisenhower asked 144 millions to operate the propaganda agency in the fiscal year starting July 1.

The Senate also approved, as did the House earlier in the day, a directive prohibiting the USIA from duplicating the work of, or competing with, private agencies in general news, film or picture service activities.

During the debate, Johnson, the Democratic leader, said he was "shocked" by USIA's use of $70,000 to hire what he termed "special writers" and that he intended "to get to the bottom of this."

Johnson told newsmen today that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee likely will study the matter when it considers legislation aimed at revoking USIA's independent status and returning it to the State Department, a recommendation of the Appropriations Committee.

The Andersons were found missing from a group of patients who had been out for an evening's entertainment. The group was being returned to the hospital about 9:15 p.m. when the Andersons slipped away.

About $10,000 was taken in the earlier robbery in 1955 and on the same day William Anderson was captured at Caruth, Mo., after an automobile chase. Officers who made the capture said that they recovered some $3,800 of the bank loot. Charles Anderson was apprehended later in Miami, Fla.

Although Lankford's estimates of the gunmen's ages does not tally with that of the Andersons, William Anderson is partly bald and looks old for his age.

Neither of the Andersons has been tried on the federal bank robbery charge.

DOROTHY DIX

Boss Takes Easy Out In Affair With Secretary

Hal Boyle

Dear Dorothy Dix: For the past two years I have been secretary to Dudley. He's married and has children. We've been secretly seeing each other after working hours.

Last week we discovered that we were in love with each other. Dudley suggested that I pack up and go to California. He says he will arrange for a divorce and then come out to marry me.

I know we're both wrong. However, my love is stronger than my reasoning. If you feel the same way everyone else does, I'll try to accept it and weigh both sides with an open mind.

AUDREY
Dear Audrey: Apparently you're carrying this story far and wide, hoping someone will pat you on the head and say, "It's perfectly all right for Dudley to break up his home. Of course he'll marry you. You'll be happy forever after." So far you haven't heard it, and you won't from me.

Dudley is taking the easy way out in crossing the continent he figures, and hopes, you'll get lost. Your conscience tells you what to do. Listen and obey.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My daughter goes with a very fine fellow who often takes her to his home for dinner. I would like her to invite him here. She feels that she doesn't live in a very nice place, so won't ask him.

MRS. M.
Dear Mrs. M.: Your daughter is a victim of false pride. A pleasant meal, served in clean, comfortable surroundings by a cheerful hostess, is tops in hospitality. No one can ask for more.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend's name is Frank, but most people call him Bud. How would I introduce him to my parents?

CLEO
Dear Cleo: I assume you have spoken to your parents about him, explaining about his name. When he calls, introduce him as Bud.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We don't approve of having boys in the house visiting our daughter when we're not at home. Also, what would you consider a fair amount of time for each of her personal telephone calls?

MELINDA
Dear Melinda: Stick to your guns about the visiting boy friends. Absolutely forbid them to call when you're not at home. As for your second question, this depends on how busy your telephone is. Between 20 minutes and half an hour should certainly constitute enough time for the young lady, especially in the evening when the phone is likely to be in demand by other members of the family.

Russian Writer Shot to Death by a Woman

WASHINGTON (UP) The 42-year-old daughter of a noted Washington physician was arrested today after Zorab Abdusheli, 44-year-old translator announced for the Voice of America, was shot to death in her plush northwest apartment.

Police said Abdusheli, who was married only a month ago, was shot to death by Edith Louise Hough, 42-year-old free lance writer.

Miss Hough is the daughter of Dr. William Hite Hough, former president of the District of Columbia Medical Society, who died in Deland, Fla., last Sunday.

Miss Hough was described as Abdusheli's "jilted girl friend." They apparently had a violent quarrel over the telephone last night. Police said Abdusheli later came to the apartment where the quarrel was resumed and climaxed by the slaying.

They said Miss Hough readily admitted the shooting and quoted her as saying that after she shot Abdusheli several times she "shot him in the head again to put him out of his misery" because she couldn't stand to see him suffer.

The woman, a gray-haired blonde, was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Abdusheli joined the Voice, an adjunct of the U. S. Information agency, five years ago. He was employed at $8000 in the Georgian (Russian) section where he wrote, translated and announced broadcasts beamed to Georgia in the Soviet Union.

He was married a month ago. Before then he had been living at the exclusive Woodner apartments where Miss Hough resided and where the shooting took place.

Police said Abdusheli married Miss Irene Eristoff at a big church affair in Highland Falls, N. Y. on May 11.

They quoted his widow as saying her husband went to Miss Hough's apartment to express his condolences over her father's death. They said she told them her husband called Miss Hough this morning, then went to visit her.

After questioning Miss Hough was bound over for preliminary hearing on a charge of murder. She was placed in the women's detention bureau until an inquest is held tomorrow.

Miss Hough's 79-year-old father retired to Florida five years ago. He was an expert in syphilis and neurology, and a consultant at M. P. Also Veterans Hospital here. He was a descendant of one

Sex Fiend Is Sought in Brutal Slaying

OMAHA, Neb., (UP) — Authorities today sought a sex fiend in the slaying of a college student's pretty wife in their tiny basement apartment.

The victim's husband, Keith Kappenman, 24, a dental student at Creighton University, had been booked for investigation. However, he was freed last night when a lie detector test proved "definitely negative."

Police launched a search for an intruder who beat Mrs. Rita Kappenman, 21, tore off her blue jeans and underclothes and fired a bullet into her brain.

Kappenman found his wife's blood-soaked body when he returned home after taking final examinations. He said at first he thought his wife, a registered nurse, was sleeping and called to awaken her.

"Then I saw her body," he said. "It was so covered with ideally be a shared voyage of rediscovery. For how often, when we summon up the memory of our dear dead, are we surprised to find that through some mystic alchemy we now understand them better and appreciate them more than when they walked daily among us!

Perhaps, on Memorial Day, the dead may even feel the same way. Surely, if life has a perspective, death does, too.

Go on - Be Napoleon If You Like

LOS ANGELES (UP) If you're driving down the freeway some day, and you suddenly get an idea blood, I could hardly stand to look at her."

An autopsy revealed Mrs. Kappenman had received a skull fracture and her body was badly bruised. A .30 caliber bullet had passed through her left hand, entered her cheek and lodged in her brain.

The examination also showed she had not been molested sexually, but authorities said the killer might have been frightened away by a noise.

Kappenman was questioned for several hours and volunteered to take the lie test. He also took a paraffin test to determine whether he had fired a gun, and it proved negative.

Kappenman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kappenman of Montrose, S. D., and the president of Creighton university, the Rev. Carl Reine S. J. stood by during the interrogation.

When he was freed, the solidly built, blond student emerged and broke into tears as he embraced his family.

Meanwhile, police planned to test a discarded .32 caliber pistol found in North Platte, Neb., reports said the gun was found in a holster near a North Platte rail yard.

Authorities believed the fatal bullet was fired from a German-made luger pistol, but said it was possible another type of gun may have been used.

that you're Napoleon Bonaparte, you'll just be confirming a theory advanced by Dr. Norbert I. Rieger.

It's really possible, Dr. Rieger believes, for a person to come upglued upstairs while trying to pilot the family car through freeway traffic.

"The strain of driving on Los Angeles freeways, surrounded by hurtling cars and trucks, is even greater than that faced by pioneer families who crossed the country in covered wagons and fought off Indians," said Rieger, staff members at the state mental hospital at Camarillo.

New Plan for Tax-Plagued Film Stars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Holiday High

lights — Here's a new wrinkle for the tax-haunted film stars: The spread, trying it. Last year he made three pictures and earned $300,000. He found himself in a 51 per cent income tax bracket, leaving him with pretty small pickin's at the end of the year.

So for "zero hour," he arranged to be paid $1,000 a week for 100 weeks. The producers are delighted, since they don't have to make a big salary outlay all at once. Dana is delighted, because the money can be spread on three years' income. And Uncle Sam doesn't seem to mind.

If there was any doubt about Jerry Lewis' going it alone in pictures, it is now dispelled. His first solo effort is also produced, "The Delicate Delinquent," has more laughs and greater credibility than any one he made with Dean Martin. He is now the screen's top and virtually only comedian.

June Allison and Dick Powell took off on a Hawaii jaunt, their first non-work vacation in years. Richest extra in movies: C. V. Whitney, who took part in a parade in "The Missouri Traveler." The film is being made by his company.

No wonder Bob Evans is popular with the town's glamor girls. He's not the only young and handsome, he also is one of the partners in Evans-Piccone, makers of fine women's wear.

It's lucky the theater marquees are long in Mexico. "Teahouse of the August Moon" translates as "La Casa de Te de La Luna de Agosto."

Anna Magnani says of her first American co-star, Burt Lancaster, "very intense, but very nice."

FPC Says Firms Can't Deduct Booklet Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Power Commission has ruled that Arkansas-Missouri Power Co., along with 58 other private power companies, improperly charged off as operating expenses the cost of booklets dealing with the public vs. private power question.

An FPC ruling that the costs were "political expenditures" was made public yesterday.

Rep. Chudoff (D-Pa.), chairman of a House Public Works Subcommittee which has attacked private utilities for what it has called attempts to influence government policy, said the decision "holds far reaching implications."

Chudoff said "it is obvious that the multi-million-dollar anti-public power campaign carried on by the electric utility industry in the past few years has been financed through illegal charges against millions of customers of electricity."

Texas Man Killed in Highway Wreck

ARKADELPHIA, Ark., (AP) - A Texas man was killed and his wife injured critically last night in a collision involving their automobile and a truck near Arkadelphia.

Bryce Edward Davis, 36, of Houston, died in the crash on U.S. Highway 67 about five miles south of here. Mrs. Gloria Davis was taken to an Arkadelphia hospital where her condition was listed as critical.

Eldon Barnes, New York City, Negro, the truck driver, was unhurt.

State Trooper Jim Rowell said State Trooper Jim Rowell said apparently the truck pulled onto the highway from a service station just before the collision occurred.

The victim was a native of Mountain Pine in Garland County, Ark.

THE MEETING PLACE

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - A man inserted the following notice in the "personal" column of the Arkansas Gazette today:

"I would like to see my brothers, relatives and friends at the Loyd Cemetery at Damascus, Ark., May 30."

Arkadelphia, Sunday afternoon, Miss Hooks played first horn in the French section in the open air concert honoring band members.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Haynie were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Haynie and daughter of Fayetteville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robey and Gus attended the graduation exercises at HSTC on Sunday afternoon. Jack Robey Jr. received his degree in Bachelor of Science and a commission in the United States Army.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Arnet have had as their guests, Mrs. Robert Maxwell of Texarkana.

Rev. and Mrs. Noel O'Steen attended graduation exercises for their son, Joe O'Steen at HSTC Sunday afternoon. Joe received his Bachelor of Arts degree and was an honor student.

Miss Amelia Harrel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Harrel, is to be congratulated for her ten years perfect school attendance. Miss Harrel has also received a certificate in the National Baton Twirling Association.

CHAPTER XXXIV

For once Gianna was feeling too badly to chatter and I was just glad. She sat in the front with Piero and I sat in the back with Achille. I could tell that he was trying to talk to me about the thing nearest to his heart, but he couldn't start it without some sign from me.

"Later, Achille," I told him and he nodded.

It was shortly after 5 o'clock when we arrived in Rome. Piero was like another part of myself. Without asking, he first dropped Gianna at a hospital and explained to her that we would return her car to her later in the evening. She was still so upset, she did nothing but given us a le smile and trot obediently up the steps of the hospital. Piero swung the car around and drove straight to the street where Achille lived.

"I will come to see you soon, Achille," I said as the boy got out of the car. "Maybe tonight, maybe in the morning."

"All right, Milo," he said.

Piero sent the little car darting away from the sidewalk. As soon as we reached a place where there were public phones, he pulled to the curb.

"I must call in," he said, "and make a report. Then I will be at your service, my friend."

"I have to make a call, too," I said.

We both went inside. He took one phone and I took another one at some distance from him. My call didn't take long and I had time to get an address. Then I went out to the car and waited.

After a few minutes, Piero came out and got behind the wheel. "Everything is in motion," he said. "There will not be much sleep in the interior building tonight. I can tell you. But the news will be good to many people."

"Including the man from the American Embassy?" I said. "I should call him, but it won't hurt him to have one more night of troubled sleep. It'll keep him on his toes."

"I have told them there are still some loose ends," Piero said. "and that I will report in later. Where to, Milo?"

I gave him the address.

We drove across Rome without talking. When Piero finally found the address, I was surprised to see that it was a modern apartment house. I suppose I shouldn't have been surprised.

Piero turned off the motor and looked at me. I think from his expression he had already guessed. "You want me to go up?" he asked quietly.

"I suppose you should," I said. "I have no authority in Rome, but I think it might be better if I did it."

"I understand," he said. I remembered then that he'd had the same experience and that he probably did understand. "I will wait here for you, Milo."

I had brought a bottle of brandy from Gambero's bar and now I took it, uncorked it and raised it to my lips. I wiped the top on my sleeve and offered it to Piero.

"I remember we used to drink this way," I said, "even though the contents during the resistance days weren't always this old or this mellow. Will you drink on the house, Piero?"

He nodded, took the bottle and drank from it. Then he, too, wiped the top on his sleeve and handed it back to me. I took the bottle and got out of the car.

"I'll be back soon," I told him. "Take your time, Milo."

He said. He had leaned back in the seat. "What is it you Americans say? Rome was not built in a day?"

"Or rebuilt," I said.

I turned and went into the apartment building. I found the name and pressed the button beneath it. Almost immediately the buzzer sounded for me to come up. I had thought it would be that way.

I had noticed the number beside the name. I went up to the third floor and along the hall until I came to the door. I pressed the button beside it.

The door opened and Wilma Pi-ahia was smiling at me.

"Hello, Milo," she said. Her voice was soft and feminine. "Come in." She stood to one side as I entered. "You are the first person to enter here beside myself," she said.

I looked around the room and I could see why. All four walls of the room were literally covered with knives. There was every kind imaginable, from a tiny two-inch dagger to a giant thing that was almost a sword. They were all arranged to make decorative patterns and in a way it was beautiful. In another way, it made the muscles of my stomach contract.

"I brought some brandy," I offered her the bottle.

She drank. Then wiped the bottle on her skirt. Afterwards she handed it back.

"This one," she said, pointed to an old, stained knife on one of the walls. "Is the one I used years ago."

"La Ragazza," I said.

She nodded. "It drank a lot of Fascist blood." She looked pleased into almost childish lines. "What for a minute, then her face fell.

"To the world," I said gently. "It was bathed in blood, Wilma. I'm not sure that anyone ever got over it or ever will."

She nodded again. "I am very good with a knife; it was the one thing I learned better than all other things." She looked at me. "Riccardo was going to kill you."

"I guessed that," I said. "And you could have done better with

News From State Capitol

State Capital Bureau

LITTLE ROCK, May 29 (Special)

Under official auspices, a movement is under way to collect for the Governor's Advisory Committee on Education what, in some quarters no doubt, will be regarded as a "slush fund."

That is a term commonly reserved for money collected from public employees or other pecuniary beneficiaries of government.

A letter which President John Tyler Caldwell has addressed to every member of the University of Arkansas staff conveys the suggestion "that each professional person on the campus faculty, the Experiment Station and the Extension Service contribute either one per cent of his annual salary, or a minimum of $2."

Dr. Caldwell revealed that the University and its extension branches "have accepted responsibility for a total of $1,000 which should be paid over to the GACE at the earliest possible moment."

The letter indicates in one place that the purpose is to cover a GACE deficit which remained after the successful campaign to drive the three per cent sales tax act through the legislature; but the statement that the GACE continues with a program for making effective use of the increased state support implies that the money will help it keep operating.

Dr. Caldwell did not disclose the total deficit but he did state it was prorated among the educational agencies.

Supporters of the three per cent sales tax referendum movement, sponsored by Hope publisher Alex. H. Washburn, are wondering if the GACE fund is destined for use in the campaign prior to the vote on the act, either at a special election or in November 1958.

Advocates of Chicago and Denver debated for more than an hour after the Kansas City site was recommended by Dr. W. Douglas Hudgins of Jackson, Miss., and Dr. Louis D. Newton of Atlanta, acting for the convention's committee on theological education.

Other battles appeared to be pending, one over a report of the Christian life commission dealing indirectly with racial integration.

The commission, headed by Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.), is expected to ask the convention to strengthen its 1955 stand accepting the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling on school desegregation as "in step with the times."

The commission proposal will ask condemnation of violence in disputes over any public issue. Some delegates regarded the non-violence report as a guarded step toward eventual integration in the convention, which has thus far admitted no Negro churches.

The convention's executive committee urged adoption of a 16½ million dollar record budget for next year, and endorsed an aim of 30,000 new Southern Baptist churches.

The women's auxiliary—women's Missionary Union—yesterday reelected Mrs. R. L. Mathis of Waco, Tex., and an employee of Baptist—operated Baylor University, for another term as president. Mrs. Robert Fling, Seminole, Okla., was elected recording secretary.

The companies announced yesterday they will file a lawsuit attacking the increase.

They asked the PSC for a rehearing principally because they contend the commission erred in denying their motion that Fort Smith Gas be required to show that the price it paid Stephens Production Co., for gas was reasonable.

At a hearing on the Fort Smith Gas rate application, the industrial firms asked the PSC to join them in seeking a Federal Power Commission probe of rates charged by the Stephens company to Fort Smith Gas.

The motion was denied.

Fort Smith Gas put the increase into effect under bond last Oct. 5.

Firms challenging the rate increase are Fort Smith Cotton Oil Co., Harding Glass Co., Good Canning Co., Radiant Glass Co., Anna Canning Co., and Cherokee Cotton Oil Co.

Baptists Place Seminary at Kansas City

CHICAGO (AP) — The Southern Baptist Convention today approved Kansas City, Mo., as the site for its 51th theological seminary. A cost limit of two million dollars was set on the project.

Location of the school precipitated the first floor flight of the four-day meeting, attended by more than 11,000 in the international amphitheater.

Advocates of Chicago and Denver debated for more than an hour after the Kansas City site was recommended by Dr. W. Douglas Hudgins of Jackson, Miss., and Dr. Louis D. Newton of Atlanta, acting for the convention's committee on theological education.

Supporters of the three per cent sales tax referendum movement, sponsored by Hope publisher Alex. H. Washburn, are wondering if the GACE fund is destined for use in the campaign prior to the vote on the act, either at a special election or in November 1958.

Other battles appeared to be pending, one over a report of the Christian life commission dealing indirectly with racial integration.

The commission, headed by Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark), is expected to ask the convention to strengthen its 1955 stand accepting the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling on school desegregation as "in step with the times."

The commission proposal will ask condemnation of violence in disputes over any public issue. Some delegates regarded the non-violence report as a guarded step toward eventual integration in the convention, which has thus far admitted no Negro churches.

The convention's executive committee urged adoption of a 16½ million dollar record budget for next year, and endorsed an aim of 30,000 new Southern Baptist churches.

The women's auxiliary — women's Missionary Union — yesterday reelected Mrs. R. L. Mathis of Waco, Tex., and an employee of Baptist — operated Baylor University, for another term as president. Mrs. Robert Fling, Seminole, Okla., was elected recording secretary.

Advocates of Chicago and Denver debated for more than an hour after the Kansas-Cover site was recommended by Dr. W. Douglas Huggins of Jackson, Miss., and Dr. Louis D. Newton of Atlanta, acting for the convention's committee on theological education.
